ATHLETE AND PARENT INFORMATION

RELEASE OF LIABILITY

Participation in athletic activities carries an inherent risk of injury, even if the greatest care is exercised. Accordingly, athletes may injure themselves while participating in any of our activities or programs. The parents of athletes and the athlete, therefore, assume all risk of personal injury, death, property loss, or other damages that may relate to our programs or activities. By assuming those risks you waive, and release, all claims you may have or may want to assert against us, our affiliates, and our affiliates' owners, officers, directors, managers, employees, agents, and representatives (ASA/TCA) for any such personal injuries, death, property loss, or other damages connected to or arising out of any of the aforesaid risks. The parents of athletes and the athlete release ASA/TCA from all claims, damages, demands, rights of action, causes of action, and liabilities, present or future, known or unknown, anticipated or unanticipated, resulting from or arising out of the athletes participating any of our activities or programs, including, without limitation, those arising from our negligence or that of any other member of the ASA/TCA. The parents of athletes and the athlete also release all members of the ASA/TCA from all liability relating to loss, theft, or damage to personal property.
